

Summer Reading Assignment

Dear Parents and Families:

This summer we are hoping to engage our students to make reading a part of their summer. To those ends we are including the attached lists and ask that you help your child be a summer reader by helping your child get books from the library or bookstore, monitoring their reading, and signing when your child finishes each book. You may even want to read the novel too and share the experience!

Our language arts teachers will be using your child's summer reading as a part of the start of year classwork, so if your child does not do their reading, he or she will have a lot of catching up to do in order to properly complete the work assigned. As well, your signatures and the return of the attached sheet will be one of the first grades of the 2021-2022 school year.

Remember, the more your child reads, the easier the adjustment is back to school in the fall and the stronger your child will be able to maintain the gains from the 2020-2021 year. Please help them help themselves. Make reading a part of your household's summer plan.

To help your child, please support your child's reading this summer with online purchases, library trips (once possible), and eBooks from either source. Books already in the home that are new to your child are also welcome. If you have any questions, please call, e-mail, or message, and we will do our best to answer your concerns.

If you cannot provide books for your child this summer, we will do our best to help your child have a book in hand before summer starts. We just need to know. During the summer if you have any difficulty in finding these books or purchasing them, please contact the school, and we will do everything we can to meet the need. Our office staff will be here most of the summer and have many of the titles on hand.

If you lose this sheet, please note that copies of our summer reading plan are available on our website and in our school office. Directions are on the back of this sheet...

Thanks again and have a great summer!

Directions: The second sheet in this letter, front and back, is a list of suggested novels for your child to select from this summer. The more your child reads, the easier it will be to come back to school in the fall and the better their skills will be. If your child wishes to pick his or her own novels from beyond the list, we only ask the following:

First, check if the book is at an appropriately challenging level. When possible, please check the book's lexile and book level, using the resources listed below.

For lexile please visit www.lexile.com and search the novel to be read. Here are the suggested "bands for texts by grade level.

6	925L to 1070L
7	970L to 1120L
8	1010L to 1185L
9	1050L to 1260L

As you can see, summer reading is more important than ever, not just because reading is an important part of encouraging a child's imagination and ability to learn but also because of the new state expectations.

If no lexile is available, you may also wish to look at a novel's book level, or reading level by grade. Sites such as www.arbookfind.com can help with this. Look for the BL to determine a novel's grade level suggested. A rule of thumb for most books concerning vocabulary is this:

Five Finger Rule: Each unknown word or concept on a page is a finger. One to two... the book may be too easy, three may just be the sweet spot—a reasonable challenge, four to five may cause the child to want to drop the book and be at a level too challenging just yet. Remember, reading should be a fun and enjoyable pastime, not a burden for the family.

If your child is choosing his or her own reading this summer, please use the chart below.

The question we know that the students will ask is, "How many books do I have to read?" The answer, however, is not a simple one. Some books are harder than others. Therefore, we ask that Mom and Dad help us by simply keeping their child reading. A suggested amount is about three to four books for general and perhaps a few more for advanced. We know some readers will read well beyond this, and for some even three will be a struggle. Just do your best is all we ask.

So whatever you do...

Make reading an important part of YOUR SUMMER!
